

Understanding the language

Kids nowadays are exposed to all sorts of language, which can make it tough for adults to keep up. From acronyms to emojis, their language is constantly changing. Whether they're in chat rooms, sending e-mails, posting on facebook, or texting & tweeting, internet slang has become the norm. It's important for parents to familiarize themselves with this language so they can closely monitor their children's technology.

*Chat Acronyms